

“ The Best Blog Niches in Making a Lot of Money

Blogging became huge nowadays. As you scroll on through the web in search for content, you might notice that there are so many tips and how-to's out there! A lot of individuals or bloggers as they say, make thousands of dollars passively as you visit or read their content. So what do they talk about in their blogs? Well, basically anything that their readers want. They earn some revenue by attracting some traffic towards their site. The more people they appeal in reading their content, the more advertisers will be interested in placing their ads on their site. Are you interested in doing the same? If so, you're in the right place to know more on how these people think of the perfect topic to talk about that drives their readers crazy.

So whether you're a new blogger or you've been doing some content blogging on your spare time, it's important that you have established a strong blogging niche that will lure in readers and attract advertisers. Read on to know how to pick your blog niche and get some ideas from the best blogging niches out there!

1. Business and Marketing

Everyone is open for business tips and advice from professionals and other knowledgeable individuals, in order to start making a living. This is one of the most competitive niches out there, so expect to have companies stalking high ranking content and working their way to promote and outcompete others. If you want to start a blog about making money online, you will be in par with some of the hard-ballers of the market out there, so be prepared when tackling this topic.

2. Technology

Product reviews, opinions and much more talking about the latest gadgets nowadays. If you're a tech-junky, this niche will suite you best. Usually people search for specs of the latest and trending smartphones, laptops and other gadgets nowadays. If you manage to get your hands on the products that they are looking for, make a review on it. They will thoroughly read through your content for any criticism on the product, the price and the overall experience.

3. Food

Food bloggers are making most of their income from advertisers, which mean that generating a lot of views for your blog is the path to success. This niche is high in demand in terms of both SEO and social media activity. The niche's wide audience coverage will lead to a much faster reaction from readers.

4. Travel

Travel blogs have a specific audience and your aim for this niche is to inspire other individuals in seeking out adventure. Inspire them to do interesting things and venture out to the beauty of new lands. You don't have to go out country to country just to start this blog; you can promote your country's beautiful attractions and invite people to visit. You might get advertisements from travel agencies for doing something that is so much fun.

Be a blogger!

10 MOST PROFITABLE BLOGGING NICHEs

Here are ten of the most profitable blog niches that are making six-digits of passive income. Feel free to get some ideas and milk it for your blog's content.

5. Health and Fitness

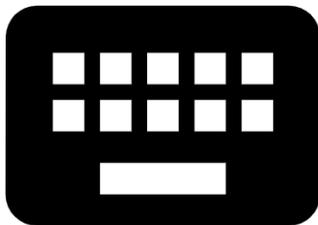

A lot of people out there are in search for fitness tips and a healthy diet regime. The idea of having an ideal body and a healthy lifestyle is a must for individuals seeking to improve their way of living. You can tackle this blog niche by answering common problems that people ask trust me they are hasty to find an answer.

6. Personal Finance

Almost everyone and anyone are looking for ways on how to save, manage and make more money. This is a perfect niche to tackle if you are into to topics like budgeting, money management, how to live a frugal lifestyle, how to invest in stocks, real estate and so much more. Worried of the competition? Don't be! Most bloggers of this niche aren't always made up of entrepreneurs or other financing experts, most of them consist of college students, work-at-home moms and other common folks who are just sharing their own tips and ways on how they manage their expenses.

hello

10. Blogging Tutorials

Surprised about this one? Well this niche basically speaks for itself, as you just read one about it. A lot of people are curious in the blogging industry and if they are interested in expressing their own thoughts and ideas, they have to start from scratch. This niche is great, as you teach individuals the art of blogging, so a new set of bloggers will arise, thus bringing in the diversity of content on the web. Offering your own advice and knowledge will become the highlights of others in improving their blogging techniques.

7. Personal Development

Everybody wants a little bit of motivation in order to start their own self-change, but where do they start? How do they start? This may seem like a sensitive niche to discuss given the fact that most people out there are not so open to the idea of talking about their weaknesses, problems and issues, but due to modern day society's standards, more and more people are in search for answers on how to improve, how to be on the right track of life and how to start living in general. If you want to help others in making a change in their life, this is the right niche for you. Not only are you making some passive income by just discussing this niche, but also you are helping others in upgrading their quality of life and becoming more productive.

8. Beauty and Fashion

The fashion and beauty is a dominant industry that is worth billions of dollars in the trade. So expect to get a fair share of those stacks of Benjamins when you want to go for the Fashion Niche. It is one of the most amusing and enjoyable niches out there. If you are a fashion guru or you just want people to know what you wear on a Tuesday night, that's perfect for this niche. It all revolves around on being expressive of one's clothing, so there's not much similarity out there, you can be unique all on your own by dressing the way you like. Give people tips and tricks about clothing and become an influencer in the making.

9. Home Decor

Home decorations and other DIY Projects are on the rage right now. Designers and remodelers get a grasp of great ideas through online design sharing sites, and what better way to get inspiration than getting ideas from other fellow designers sharing their layouts. These blog sites allow aspiring designers and remodelers to collaborate their ideas with others. For the bloggers, the platform is perfect in promoting their own design ideas. Basically, a project requires a certain type of materials, equipment and the shade of paint to be used. Construction and renovation companies would love bloggers to promote their products and services.

HOW TO CHOOSE THE PERFECT BLOG NICHE

Blog niches are topics, contents or interests that appeal to a specific audience. These are used by most content writers in order to attract a lot of readers to their site and get the attention of advertisers in order to generate some passive income. Choosing the right blogging niche will give you the edge you need to compete with high SEO ranking sites out there. With the right knowledge and preparation, you'll be able to drive in a lot of traffic to your site. Here simple steps in helping you choose the perfect blogging niche that suites you well.

1. Know your interests

- Something you know
- Interesting to read
- It's your expertise

2. Be passionate

- Passion over Profession
- Conversational approach
- Write naturally

3. Identify your audience

- Who will read your content?
- Overcome others
- Know the target market

4. Think outside the box

- Be creative
- Don't be repetitive
- Plan your blog's theme

5. Deliver and Connect

- Attract a lot of readers
- Interact with your visitors
- First impressions count

Know that you had an idea of the top niches to choose from, which one do you think will suite you best? Having the right knowledge and preparation, you'll be able to drive in a lot of traffic to your site. Here simple steps in helping you choose the perfect blogging niche that suite you well.

1 STEP 1: Know your interests

The first step is to find something that falls within your own interests. Think of topics that you love to talk about and you have a lot of knowledge with, it's easier to share some ideas, thoughts and content when it comes directly from your interests. So this step is all about choosing either something you know or love. Your interests can also help you develop and improve your skills and expertise on the subject you are talking about. If you found your interests, list them down and you are now one step closer to finding your perfect blogging niche.

2 STEP 2: Be passionate

Don't always think about the money, think of blogging as a calming and soothing hobby. Don't stress yourself out and just have fun in doing it, in writing your thoughts, in expressing yourself and you might not know that you're already creating brilliant content for your audience without looking like a try-hard. Those who are passionate about the topics that they want to discuss about, tend to continue talking about it for hours. Remember...

Passion over Profession

3

STEP 3: Identify your audience

If you are trying to talk to a very large crowd, chances are that your message may not be conveyed clearly. Without having a clear idea of a specific audience, your approach will be indistinguishable, and likely unsuccessful. If you are unsure on who you want to read your content, then you have to identify the theme and topic of your blog and know whether it is appropriate for a specific demographic.

4

STEP 4: Think outside the box

Blogging creates a playing field in the marketplace for some fair competition that a lot of bloggers with the same theme or topic will engage in. So it is all about who is interesting and who isn't and you want to be the center of attention. Creativity to this day is vital to stay relevant with constant changes and innovations in order to be active in blogging community. As a content creator, you are constantly in search for ideas that are in favor in the eyes of your readers. It is important for that you will be able to generate new ideas and create appealing ways to your content.

5

STEP 5: Deliver and Connect

Last step and the most crucial of all, is to distribute and publish your content. This is where the customers will finally know about your content. Boosting visibility will grow your audience and your revenue as well. Plan your delivery and if you're successful in doing so, expect to have a lot of traffic for days.